DEFINITION OF CUSTOMER PROPRIETARY NETWORK INFORMATION ("CPNI") AND COMPANY GENERAL POLICY RE: TREATMENT OF CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

CPNI includes information 1) that relates to the quantity, technical configuration, type, destination, location, and amount of use of a telecommunications service subscribed to by any customer of a telecommunications carrier, and that is made available to the carrier by the customer solely by virtue of the carrier-customer relationship; and 2) information contained in the bills pertaining to telephone exchange service or telephone toll service received by a customer of a carrier. CPNI does not include subscriber list information, which is customer information published in a telephone directory.

The Company recognizes that every telecommunications carrier has a duty to protect the confidentiality of proprietary information of, and relating to, other telecommunications carriers, equipment manufacturers, and customers. The Company understands that a telecommunications carrier that receives or obtains proprietary information from another carrier for purposes of providing any telecommunications service is obligated to use such information only for such purpose, and is not permitted to use such information for its own marketing efforts.

The Company does not initiate customer contact for the purpose of marketing its services and does not contract with third-parties other than media companies to market its services.

COMPANY USE, DISCLOSURE AND PERMISSION OF ACCESS TO CPNI

Where necessary, the Company has the right to use, disclose or permit access to CPNI to protect its rights or property or the rights or property of its underlying carrier, to protect users of its services and other carriers from fraudulent, abusive, unlawful use of or unlawful subscription to its services.

The Company does not use, disclose, or permit access to CPNI to identify or track customers that call competing service providers or for any other purpose that is prohibited by the FCC's rules.
